

INSTRUCTIONS FOR AUTHORS

(May 2012)

ISIJ International is a monthly publication of the Iron and Steel Institute of Japan (ISIJ). Timely and original contributions are welcome from ISIJ members and nonmembers from all over the world.

1. Scope: The journal provides an international medium for the publication of fundamental and technological aspects of the properties, structure, characterization and modeling, processing, fabrication, and environmental issues of iron and steel, along with relating engineering materials.

2. Category:

(1) Regular Article (maximum of ten printed pages): An original article documenting significant results that contribute to the extension of knowledge and promotion of our understanding, and that is presented in such a way that qualified workers can replicate the key elements on the basis of the information provided.

(2) Review article: An article about an extensive survey on one particular subject, in which the already published information is compiled, analyzed, and discussed. Reviews are normally delegated, but voluntary proposal of a review topic(s) by a prospective author(s) is welcome.

(3) Note (maximum of three printed pages): (a) An article on a new finding or an interesting aspect of an ongoing study that merits prompt preliminary publication in condensed form; (b) a medium for the presentation of new research and techniques; (c) topics, opinions, or proposals that would be of interest to the readers; and (d) criticisms or additional proofs and interpretations in connection with articles previously published in the institute journals.

3. Language: All contributions must be written in English. Latitude in terms of spelling, both in American and British styles, is permitted, although its consistency is required throughout the manuscript.

4. Units: The standard SI units must be used. Non-SI units should be confined to those that have been approved for use with SI units by the Editorial Board (refer to the annexed table).

5. Requirements of manuscript: The manuscript should not have been copyrighted, published, or submitted for publication elsewhere.

A manuscript that does not conform to the "Instructions for Authors" and the "Guide for the Preparation of a Manuscript" will not be "received".

The author should upload the document file with title page, synopsis, key words, text, references in Word and the electronic files for tables and figures in Word, tif, jpg, and other appropriate files.

Figures should be of a superior quality for direct reproduction for printing. Papers exceeding the page limit may be returned to the author for condensation prior to review.

6. Procedure of Submission: The manuscript should be submitted via ISIJ International online submission site on the following URL.

<http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/isijint>

A submission outside of the online submission system will not be received.

All manuscripts, except for review articles, must be submitted along with a statement signed by the representative author with the consent of all co-authors, affirming that the manuscript is an original work (i.e., it has not already been published, is expected to be published, or is being considered for publication by another journal).

7. Review: Every manuscript undergoes a peer review according to established criteria.

8. Revision of the manuscript: In the event that the original manuscript is returned to the author for revision, the electronic file(s) of the revised manuscript must be uploaded within three weeks. If your revised manuscript is uploaded exceeding three months, we may have to consider your paper as a new submission.

9. Received and Accepted Date: The day when the manuscript is submitted and its ID is assigned is referred to as the received date.

The day when the Editorial Board of the ISIJ International decides to accept the manuscript for publication is referred to as the accepted date.

10. Proofs: The representative author will receive the galley proof of the paper. No new material may be added to the proof. It is essential that the author return the proof before a specified deadline to avoid rescheduling of publication in a later issue.

11. Copyright: The submission of an article implies that all copyrights provided in Articles 21 through 28 of the Copyright Law of Japan are transferred to the Iron and Steel Institute of Japan. The transfer is made effective by placing checkmarks in the relevant column of the online application form and becomes void if the paper is not accepted for publication in the journal.

When there are multiple authors, a representative to whom the relevant authorities have delegated shall carry out the above procedure. The representative shall assume all responsibilities related to the transfer of copyrights.

12. Page Charge: The author must consent to the page charge and place the checkmarks in the relevant column of the electronic application form related thereto. A charge of ¥7,000 per printed page will be collected for the published papers. Reprints will be available with actual expenses upon the author's request. The PDF file of the published paper is supplied to the author without additional charge.

The page charges may be waived upon the author's request. The Application for the Page Charge Exemption shall be accepted only at the time of submission of an article. The application for the Page Charge Exemption shall be limited to students and researchers affiliated with overseas universities and public institutions. In the event that such an author finds it difficult to pay the page charges, download the "Application for the Page Charge Exemption" from the ISIJ web site, fill and upload it as Supplementary Files along with your manuscript. The Editorial Board will determine whether an exemption is applicable, and will inform of its decision to the applicants.

13. Prohibition of Fraudulent Acts: Fraudulent acts such as fabrications, falsification, plagiarism, and multiple submissions of the manuscript are prohibited. When submitting a manuscript that includes content that overlaps with other articles under submission or content that has already been published in print or on the Web (not limited to official publications), the manuscript must be accompanied by such articles. Furthermore, if necessary, a document explaining the similarity and difference between the manuscript and those articles should be included. The Editorial Board may deem it necessary to verify that the manuscript is not a part of multiple submissions before examining it for acceptance.